Criminal Trials

As “one of New York City’s premier litigation boutiques” (Chambers USA), Sher Tremonte’s track record speaks for itself. Our lawyers are powerhouses in the courtroom: tireless advocates and persuasive storytellers who can build credibility and shape narratives that sway juries. From pre-trial through appeal – a sensitive process that often involves intense public scrutiny – we advocate for our clients aggressively and creatively and counsel them with compassion.

We have obtained numerous jury acquittals, won pretrial motions to dismiss, and consistently achieved favorable sentencing outcomes. Our team routinely persuades prosecutors to decline to prosecute, to drop charges – either outright or pursuant to deferred prosecution agreements – or to offer misdemeanor or reduced charges in favorable plea deals.

Experience

- Obtained the full dismissal of federal criminal charges against a senior United Nations employee in a visa fraud and foreign labor contracting prosecution in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York.
- Obtained the full dismissal of state criminal charges against a top aide to a New York City council member in a campaign finance prosecution.
- Obtained not guilty verdicts on murder counts in a two-week federal criminal trial in the Southern District of New York.
- Mitigated charges for an individual indicted in a highly publicized criminal RICO conspiracy matter by placing her role among the five other defendants in context, ultimately obtaining a probationary sentence.

Internal Investigations

Sher Tremonte conducts internal investigations on behalf of companies and counsels executives and employees involved in such investigations. The firm's prior experience in internal investigations have involved a wide range of allegations, including securities fraud, accounting fraud, foreign corrupt practices, insider trading, market manipulation, anti-competitive market practices, tax fraud, economic espionage, and #MeToo claims. Our clientele includes corporations, boards of directors and special committees, governmental entities, nonprofit organizations, and educational institutions "from across the market" that value our "notable expertise handling investigations" (Chambers USA).

The firm's strength in this area stems in part from our lawyers' robust government service credentials – including a former senior trial counsel for the SEC's Division of Enforcement, former Assistant U.S. Attorneys, a former federal defender, and a current FINRA arbitrator. This experience allows us to provide swift, diligent, and effective investigative services that minimize disruption to our clients' operations. When an investigation has concluded, we help clients prevent future misconduct by providing a clear blueprint for compliance.

We pursue the quickest and most efficient path toward resolution, deploying our investigative acumen and deep market knowledge to help clients quickly return to business as usual while minimizing exposure. When financial regulators cannot be persuaded that no violations have occurred, we stand ready to negotiate a practical settlement or vigorously defend our clients in both federal court and administrative proceedings.

Our team has decades of experience successfully steering clients through regulatory investigations and enforcement proceedings. Two of our partners joined the firm after years at the SEC and the DOJ, during which they exercised substantial responsibility for the civil and criminal prosecution decision-making processes for matters concerning allegations of financial wrongdoing. Two other partners have led numerous defense teams in connection with financial fraud investigations, while another partner previously served as in-house counsel to a large financial services firm and currently serves as a FINRA industry arbitrator.

Sher Tremonte advises whistleblowers who have witnessed fraud or other criminal conduct on how to navigate complicated legal terrain, safeguard against retaliation, and, where possible, secure substantial monetary awards. We have advised whistleblowers in connection with violations of statutes governing securities, commodities, and taxes. Our team is staffed by a former senior trial counsel for the SEC's Division of Enforcement, a former Assistant U.S. Attorney, a former federal defender, and a current FINRA arbitrator, making us fluent in the language of regulatory authorities. We use this knowledge to translate our clients' reports into credible, compelling claims that convince the government to intervene and, where appropriate, provide an award.

The firm also represents victims of financial crimes, including wire fraud, mail fraud, and securities fraud. Our lawyers serve as driven, empathetic advocates, combining strong litigation skills and a keen strategic eye with an abundance of compassion for clients suffering emotional and financial harm.
