Sicheng supports legal teams on a broad range of matters, both substantively and administratively, from high-profile criminal defense to commercial and civil litigation.

Driven by his intellectual curiosity and passion for social justice, Sicheng assists case teams through skills honed in the rigorous qualitative and quantitative research programs at his undergraduate institution. Previously, Sicheng worked for a public interest law firm in China, where he produced comparative cross-national legal research on laws and regulations regarding game addiction. He also served as a board member at an educational NGO.
