Valeria supports the firm's legal teams on a range of matters, from complex commercial litigation and business disputes to criminal investigations and prosecutions.

Known for her meticulous attention to detail, Valeria provides in-depth research on critical factual issues and carefully organizes case information. She is committed to assisting her teams as promptly and effectively as possible.

Prior to joining the firm, Valeria volunteered for the Children's Law Center of Massachusetts, where she advocated for low-income families with children in need of assistance in areas such as education and immigration. Valeria has a special interest in criminal defense and pro bono work, and her past participation in writing exchange programs with incarcerated adults and juveniles has given her a deeper connection to incarcerated individuals and an understanding of the realities of the prison system.
